Introduction

Asia's life insurance sector is entering a decisive decade. The region continues to lead global premium growth, yet the landscape is being reshaped by powerful structural forces: ageing populations, widening protection and retirement gaps, evolving capital regimes, AI-driven operating models, and increasingly sophisticated customers who expect seamless, personalised engagement.

Across markets, life insurers are recalibrating strategies to balance growth with capital discipline. IFRS 17 and evolving solvency frameworks are sharpening focus on earnings quality, product profitability, and asset-liability alignment. At the same time, embedded insurance, platform ecosystems, and digital advisory models are redefining distribution economics. Artificial intelligence is moving beyond experimentation into underwriting, claims automation, predictive retention, and capital optimisation.

Hong Kong stands at the centre of these shifts. As one of Asia's most international insurance hubs, it plays a critical role in wealth management, cross-border insurance flows, and retirement solutions. With strong demand from the Greater Bay Area, continued innovation in participating products, and a renewed emphasis on risk management and governance, Hong Kong's life sector offers a compelling lens into the future of regional insurance leadership.

The Asia Life Insurance Summit 2026 will convene CEOs, CFOs, CROs, Chief Actuaries, distribution leaders, and professionals serving the Life insurance industry for a high-level strategic dialogue on sustainable value creation.

The focus is clear: how to unlock capital-efficient growth, deepen customer lifetime value, strengthen balance sheet resilience, and build digitally enabled operating models that endure through cycles.

For industry leaders committed to shaping the next era of protection, wealth, and retirement across Asia, this Summit will deliver strategic clarity, peer-level insight, and actionable advantage.
